

building a stronger community

Although people living with ADHD can be very successful in life, without identification and proper treatment, ADHD may have serious consequences, including: school or work failure, depression, problems with relationships, substance abuse, and difficulties with the legal system. Early identification and treatment are extremely important to ensure lifelong success.

The National Resource Center on ADHD works closely with a Professional Advisory Board of nationally recognized ADHD experts to ensure its materials meet the highest standards for scientifically-based information.

For more information please call 866.200.8098
or visit our website www.CHADD.org

The National Resource Center on ADHD is a program of Children and Adults with Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder, Inc. (CHADD). It was established through a cooperative agreement with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center on Birth Defects and Developmental Disabilities, to serve as the national clearinghouse for the latest evidence-based information on ADHD.

National Resource Center
on ADHD
A Program of CHADD

National Resource Center
on ADHD

the big picture

CHADD's National Resource Center on ADHD provides science-based information, education and programs to increase acceptance and reduce stigma associated with ADHD; promotes the health and well-being of children and adults with ADHD and their families; and strengthens the capacity of professionals to work effectively with those affected by ADHD.

informed solutions can produce big results

What We Do:

Website Find science-based information on ADHD and related disorders at www.CHADD.org

ADHD Helpline Health Information Specialists answer your questions at 866-200-8098, Monday-Friday, 1 p.m. – 5 p.m. ET

Ask the Expert Signature webcast series featuring leading ADHD scientists, researchers, and health care practitioners

ADHD Weekly A biweekly newsletter focusing on timely information about ADHD, treatment, and lifestyle

Health Sciences Library Resources and access to the national medical library system and the NRC's library database

ADHD Communities Together (ACT) A program to target underserved communities affected by ADHD through community outreach

Digital Media Podcasts and video series on the most current ADHD information

Young Scientist Award Program Encouraging ADHD research through the recognition of emerging scientists

Research Studies Postings Supporting research through website postings of current ADHD research

ADHD Awareness Month National activities to raise awareness and disseminate evidence-based information

Collaborations with professionals and ADHD organizations to expand our mission and reach.

Professional Training Podcast-based continuing education courses to help medical professionals effectively diagnose, treat, and manage ADHD

Social Media Find us on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest, LinkedIn and YouTube to keep up-to-date on the latest ADHD developments

Online Communities Places to discuss ADHD parenting issues and topics for adults