

RESEARCH STUDY ON PERSONALITY TESTING & ADHD

Who qualifies? Employed (full- or part-time) adults with or without ADHD.

Study purpose: To understand if personality in hiring contexts impact people with vs. without ADHD differently.

Why participate? This research could improve fairness in hiring for people with ADHD.

Study details: You'll be asked to complete a 20-minute online survey about your personality, job, ADHD status, and demographics.

As compensation, you can enter a raffle to win one of ten $20 Amazon gift cards after completion.

To participate, scan the QR code or go to:

<https://bit.ly/riceadhdstudy>

For questions about the study, contact Elisabeth Silver, elisabeth.silver@rice.edu, or Dr. Mikki Hebl, hebl@rice.edu (principal investigator)

This study has been approved by the Rice University IRB (protocol number: IRB-FY2022-176). For questions about your rights as a participant, contact a Rice IRB administrator, phone: 713-348-3586, email: irb@rice.edu